ATTEMPTS TO EXPLAIN TO THE UNITED STATES
GOVERNMENT YOUR PREDICAMENT

United States Government,

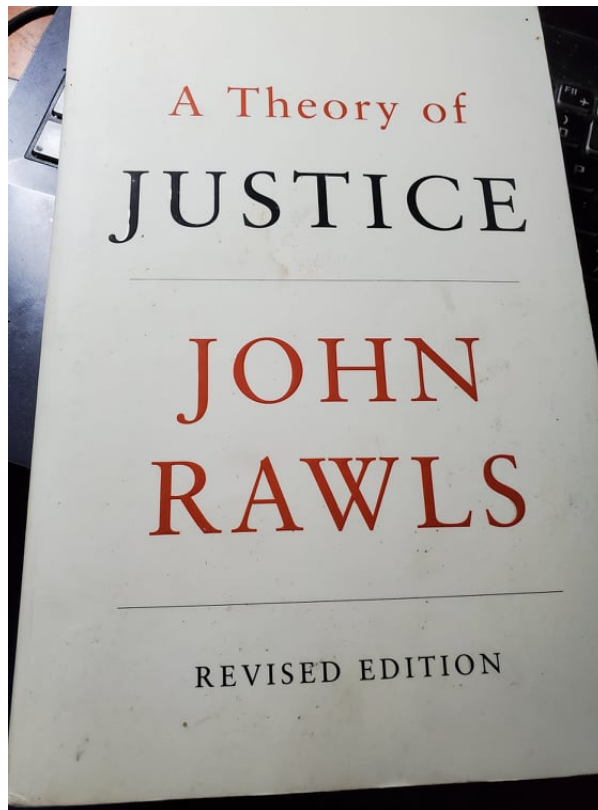

Your predicament is quite unusual. You are a government that actually has never cared to follow the charter of the nation faithfully. The charter, US Declaration of Independence Preamble, had explicitly told you your purpose. But it never really registered in United States Government. Your purpose is to secure natural rights of Americans, to secure Life, Liberty and pursuit of Happiness. You've never really done that in the past 250 years which is quite unfortunate.

You've thought this just means some law enforcement budget and that's that.

Now you are dealing with a victim of a crime, myself, an American, USCIS# 046-077-179. Expiration in 2031. Perfectly good Permanent Resident for a quarter of a century now. I was pursuing my American Dream, savagely disrupted by a mass murdering lawless criminal who had deceived you and the world for four decades. You find out that he has plans for genocide of non-whites in the country.

You have a difficult time deciding whether to destroy him or not. You see, your rhetoric I know all around the world. Why are you suddenly so confused? Did the cat get your tongue? You used to be alright. What happened? Did the cat get your tongue? Fine fine that's from "Fifteen Steps" a gorgeous piece of art, sublime song of Radiohead.

Anyway, look, I understand geopolitics better than most of the people in United States Government. You see this book here?

Well I have looked over it. My friend Waheed Hussein was very good with this sort of thing. The point is that you are in a world order that is governed partly by ideas in this book. You should read it sometimes, it is a great treatise on philosophical principles going back to John Locke.

You see, a Multi-Ethnic Classical Liberal Democratic Republic of 330 million people is not exactly a simple matter. This nation, it has nothing else uniting the people. You think this 'white tribe' thing has any substance? All the white people are aggregates from different ancestries in Europe. There is nothing else that holds this nation together but the principles and laws that were originated by John Locke.

So you want to pretend that I, Zulfikar Moinuddin Ahmed, who is a magna cum laude from Princeton, who has better skills in geopolitics than most of you, will not be able to nix the entire nation if you dare to allow Bill Gates destroy my life?

You're funny, United States Government. You are most amusing. Look, Chinese Premier has already voiced concern about this Bill Gates will kill Zulf like he did so many before and United States Government will look the other way. Well, it's meta murder, so you can probably do it and American people might not even know. But European nations do know, and Asia too. And there is voluminous emails in UN email box with various things.

An interesting predicament for you because nations are cold and rational and will adjust to my death and no one will believe that you did not knowingly support Bill Gates in the destruction of my life. Now you're the people who pardoned William Calley after the Mai Lai massacre. No one in Asia forgot that. You show your true colours when US Declaration of Independence is right on the board. You don't think this is a real risk perhaps. Well have you dealt with this situation before?

You really think Bill Gates is worth losing the entire nation?

Those are some of the very interesting issues that Oxford History and Europe and Asian considerations will be.

Anyway, it's a good song, "Fifteen steps".

You used to be alright
What happened?
Did the cat get your tongue
Did your string come undone
One by one
One by one
It comes to us all
It's as soft as your pillow
You used to be alright
What happened?
Etcetera etcetera
Facts for whatever
Fifteen steps
Then a sheer drop

Fabulous, this song. You like it?

Sincerely,

Zulfikar Moinuddin Ahmed
